

Information Heavylifting for Business Consulting

Consultant's Information Heavylifting Team:

Consultants: as a team with you in charge, TeamsWin provides "Business Intelligence". Your customers benefit. We help them get it, and you help them use that intelligence. We prefer to work for you business consultants, behind the scene.

"Business Intelligence" is a buzzword that describes information organized for decision making. Currently, business information is formatted to support and report business functions, or the flow of business information. Now, you can get instant access to that same information formatted for decision making, a view of business relationships or the "Big Picture" view.

You can help them use that intelligence. In school you learned business science: the art of making intelligent business decisions, or the art of helping people work together. In management accounting, you learned information requirements and how to make those business decisions. Our products will remind you what you learned about that art. Using your customer's information, you will be able to show them business science. Recognizing their information, they will better understand their business for more intelligent decisions.

TeamsWin Information Heavylifting Services transform reports into strategic relationships for decision making. Besides Sales, Production, Management and Financial Reports, reports also come with names like catalogs, regulations, industry standards, payrolls and maps.

Because Information Heavylifting replaces need for other databases, most Database Services are included in the cost of Information Heavylifting. Our website www.teamswin.net describes Information Heavylifting, including Database Services also described.

Please contact me. I would like to visit with you at a convenient spot (coffee shop, golf course, ski lift, etc.) to talk about your business.

Thank you,
